HORROR, DESOLATION RIDE ON FLOOD CREST

UNPRECEDENTED RISE IN THE MISSISSIPPI

SWEEPS OVER HALF OF STATE OF ARKANSAS
TODAY

ENGULFS SECTIONS OF THREE OTHER STATES WITH FLOOD WATERS

Memphis, Tenn., April 16.—(UP)—Horror and desolation riding upon the crest of an unprecedented rise in the Mississippi river swept over half of Arkansas today and spread out to engulf sections of Mississippi, Missouri and Tennessee.

Snapping like a match stick, the levee at Judsonia, Ark., went out this morning, despite the labor of hundreds of men augmented by women.

The water is four feet deep in Judsonia streets and hundreds of the inhabitants from the surrounding lowlands are fleeing before the torrent.

With 2,000 acres under water, and six counties asking for more than 1,000 additional tents, the Arkansas national guard is running out of tents.

A plea has been sent by Governor Martineau to the adjutant general at Washington soliciting more tents.

More than $250,000 damage occurred at Branson, Mo., and Hollister, Mo., when flood waters of the White river left their banks and swept down into the fields.

BREAK IN LEVEE AT CHARLESTOWN, MO.

Charlestown, Mo., April 16.—A large break in the Mississippi river levee south of here today flooded Dorena, Mo., and approximately 100,000 acres of farm land.

Between 1,200 and 1,500 persons were driven from their homes by the advancing flood. Warnings had been issued, however, and none are believed to have drowned.

Water stood from 10 to 15 feet deep over the inundated area. A relief boat was despatched down the river from here with men and supplies. Two relief trains, one carrying supplies and the other 125 workmen, set out for the flood district.

Dorena is just across the Mississippi river from Hickman, Ky., which is also threatened.

A company of national guardsmen had worked all night at the levee which gave way. There was little hope of patching the wall before present high waters subside.

MOUNDS, ILL., IS FLOODED

Marion, Ill., April 16.—A break in the Mississippi river levee today flooded Mounds, Ill., with four feet of water which was rapidly rising. Officials of the Central Illinois Power Co. here were notified today.

The company's power plant at Mounds was disabled.

The levee break, according to the message received here, occurred early this morning, a large section crumbling under the pressure of high waters which rushed over the city.

Mounds is a city of 2,661 inhabitants. It is only eight miles from Cairo, Ill., and the flood will rush on to the levee which protects Cairo from the rear.

Cairo is surrounded by a protecting wall, however, and is believed safe from serious flood damage.

THOUSANDS OF ACRES INUNDATED

St. Louis, Mo., April 16.—With thousands of acres inundated and scores of families forced from their homes in the lowlands, the great tide of flood water in the Mississippi river was expected to reach its crest today.

Forecasts for "further" thunderstorms today and Sunday promised the highest river stage in the St. Louis district since 1909.

Despite the prediction of further rains, the river will remain stationary for the next two days before flood waters begin to recede, the weather bureau announced.

While levees in the St. Louis district are expected to hold the flood current, conditions were steadily growing worse downstream from Cairo, Ill., and Cape Girardeau, Mo., where the levees are crumbling in many places.

The Black river in southern Missouri, was reported today on its worst rampage since 1915. Much land in

UMBRELLA HAS PART IN EASTER PARADE SUNDAY

Chicago, April 16.—(UP)—The umbrella—not the parasol—will have a necessary place in the middle western Easter parade tomorrow, the Chicago weather bureau forecast today.

The weather tomorrow will continue unsettled with occasional showers to be expected, the bureau predicted in a special Easter forecast. Temperatures, however, will be slightly higher—making it possible for spring finery to be on exhibit if its wearers are willing to risk the rain.

PASSOVER IS CELEBRATED BY JEWISH FAITH

GREATEST HOLY DAY IN THEIR RELIGIOUS CALENDAR

MORE THAN 650,000 FAMILIES
TO OBSERVE THE RITUAL

By JOSEPH S. WASNEY
(United Press Staff Correspondent)

Washington, April 16.—(UP)—As Gentiles today prepared for Easter, followers of the Jewish faith were ready to celebrate tonight the greatest holy day in their calendar—the feast of the Passover.

More than 650,000 families tonight will enact the age-old story of deliverance of the Hebrews from the hands of Pharaoh in Egypt.

When Pharaoh would not release the Israelites from slavery, Moses brought on ten plagues. The last one was the angel of death which killed all first born of the Egyptians. By placing the blood of a lamb on their doorways, the Jews escaped as the angel "passed over" the blood-marked homes. Hence the origin of the word passover. Some authorities, however, claim the passing of the Red Sea after it dried up gave rise to the title passover.

H. J. Weeks, federal supervisor of sacramental wines, who has made a study of Jewish religious rites, explained in an exclusive interview today, the history of the Passover.

"The Jewish people go through the minutiae of the great event and practically retrace their steps from Palestine to Sinai, from Sinai through the desert, across the Red Sea and back to Egypt," Weeks said.

"The history of their enslavement and deliverance, their great leaders—Moses and Aaron—and the cloud by day and the pillar of fire by night, in the age of miracles is capped by the stupendous climax of the drying up of the Red Sea, the crossing of the 600,000—and the swallowing up of the Egyptian host by the returning waves.

"Climaxing this great event is the education and preparation of the people, having passed through almost unendurable hardship and pain, to receive the Ten Commandments from Moses at the foot of Mt. Sinai.

"The period of deliverance was past and the children of slaves started as an independent people in the land that had been promised for generations of Hebrew prophets of old. This is the story that will be enacted during the next few days."

Weeks said that out of the 700,000 Jewish householders in America, fully 650,000 will drink four cups of wine each in the celebration. The first is for the deliverance from Egypt, the second for crossing the the vicinity of Poplar Bluffs is under water from the overflow of this stream, it is reported.

Innumerable main highways throughout the valley were reported under water and impassable.

Dozens of washouts have been reported by railroads running through the flood areas. Scores of trains were either cancelled or running on foreign roadbeds today.

Farmers and levee guards are patrolling every mile of the levee system from St. Louis to the Gulf today. At Columbus, Ky., a little fishing and trading section, 800 persons were made homeless when flood waters ripped through the levee and water at a depth of 10 feet swept through the town.

Several houses were seen floating with the current in Lake Taneycomo, near Branson, Mo., last night.

An Easter Thought

My Redeemer Lives

"I know that my Redeemer lives!"
What comfort this sweet sentence gives.
He lives, He lives, who once was dead,
He lives, my ever living Head.

He lives to bless me with His love,
He lives to plead for me above,
He lives my hungry soul to feed,
He lives to help in time of need.

He lives to comfort me when faint,
He lives to hear my soul's complaint,
He lives to calm my troubled heart,
He lives, all blessings to impart.

He lives, all glory to His name!
He lives, my Jesus, still the same;
O the sweet joy this sentence gives,
"I know that my Redeemer lives!"

Coolidge Ready to Challenge Aspirations of Presidential Candidate of Farm Belt

ENDORSES FARM RELIEF MOVEMENT COMPROMISE

THUS OPENS THE ROAD FOR A THIRD TERM ATTEMPT

COOLIDGE TO SUPPORT McNARY IN DRAFTING NEW MEASURE

By THOMAS L. STOKES
(United Press Staff Correspondent)

Washington, April 16.—By endorsing officially the compromise farm relief movement, President Coolidge has demonstrated he is ready to challenge the aspirations of the avowed presidential candidate of the agricultural belt, former Governor Frank O. Lowden of Illinois, and thus open the road for a third term attempt.

The endorsement came from the president's spokesman, who explained that Coolidge will support Senator McNary, republican, Oregon, sponsor of the McNary-Haugen bill vetoed by the president, in his effort to frame a compromise measure, and that the agriculture and other government departments stand ready to help the Oregon senator.

While the compromise farm relief movement was projected by those pressing the third term campaign, its aim is to have the new program come from such sponsors of radical legislation as McNary, so that the farm region will get behind it. It will appear thus that the administration has adopted views more in keeping with those of the agricultural leaders.

While this activity proceeds in the republican "third-term" camp, one of the leading contenders for the democratic nomination in 1928, William G. McAdoo, is conferring here with political friends. Some who have talked with him say he is ready to step down as a candidate and now is grooming a successor to combat the Al Smith movement.

Whether McAdoo eliminates himself will depend, however, upon his large following throughout the country, some of whom are still enthusiastic for him, and upon whether he, twice a candidate, can resist the call of

The seismograph gave no indication of the direction of the shaken area, but the record was almost a replica of that produced by the Chilean quake Thursday.

SPANISH TROOPS FIGHT MOROCCANS

Madrid, April 16.—(UP)—Spanish troops have fought a major battle with rebellious Moroccans, a dispatch from Calquemado reported today. It was estimated that there had been 200 Moorish casualties.

Dispatches from Melilla today said stormy weather continued in parts of the Spanish zone in Morocco and that a 65-mile-an-hour wind had done considerable damage yesterday.

PAN-AMERICAN FLIGHT SQUADRON RESUMES JOURNEY

Santo Domingo, Dominican Republic, April 16.—(UP)—The United States army's Pan-American flight squadron resumed its journey to Haiti today en route to Washington by way of Havana and Florida. The fliers left at 10 a. m. after President Vazquez had been up for 20 minutes in one of the planes.

Edwin T. Meredith of Iowa, secretary of agriculture in the Wilson administration, is the man upon whom McAdoo's eyes are fixed as a successor. Meredith, not a colorful figure, has many friends, and comes from the farm section whose desires may have much to do with picking the next president.

A "wet" outburst against McAdoo followed his arrival in the capitol, G. C. Hinckley, of the Association Against the Prohibition Amendment, declaring in a statement that McAdoo is going to "quite unnecessary expense in touring the east and south to determine whether he will be a candidate," adding "all that Mr. McAdoo needs to do is to get an audience with Wayne B. Wheeler of the Anti-Saloon League."

PARK AVENUE VIES WITH FIFTH AVENUE

PARALLEL NEIGHBOR OF NEW YORK STREET TO HAVE EASTER PARADE

200,000 STROLLERS TO APPEAR
SUNDAY IN NEW COSTUMES

New York, April 16.—(UP)—Fifth Avenue, traditional scene of New York's annual Easter fashion parade, is losing caste. Its parallel neighbor, Park Avenue, has entered the competition and with considerable success.

The old Fifth Avenue of huge, forbidding homes in which no one seemed to live because there was never a face at any of the hundred windows, has given way to a thoroughfare of modern office buildings. True, Park Avenue is lined with tall structures, too, but they are apartment buildings and house a large percentage of the city's wealthy.

With reasonably fair weather forecast for tomorrow, more than 200,000 strollers will appear on Park and Fifth between the hours of 10 A. M. and 3 P. M., with $50 a low estimate of the amount expended by each person for new finery. The parade will represent an outlay of $10,000,000.

The boardwalk at Coney Island also will be crowded, with pleasure-seekers from five boroughs joining in the festivities.

Another parade of quantity and quality is that annually held on DeLancey Street, on the lower east side.

As to fashion predictions, there are conflicts. The keynote no doubt will be a palette of colors among the women and the customary frock coat and "topper" among the well-dressed men.

FIRE-DAMP EXPLOSION KILLS 21 MEN

Brussels, April 16.—(UP)—Twenty-one miners were believed by mine officials to have been killed today in the E. S. Stinnes mine, near here which was wrecked by a fire-damp explosion.

BANDITS ROB, GET AWAY, EVEN IF CAR BALKS

Portland, Ore., April 16.—(UP)—Police today were searching for three bandits with a balky automobile and $26,000 loot taken from a department store messenger in a busy downtown street late yesterday.

Just as the bandits leaped into their car after taking the money, the engine failed, and the curious surged forward.

Knocking the back window out of the automobile, two of the holdup men held back spectators with rifles until the driver had the engine started.

WARFARE OF FACTIONS SPREADS TO CITY OF CANTON

REPORTED 100 PERSONS KILLED IN SEVERE STREET
FIGHTING

COMMUNISTS AND MODERATES
AMONG CHINESE WAGE BATTLE

Hongkong, April 16.—(UP)—Warfare between factions of the nationalist government has spread to Canton, where, it was reported here today, 100 persons were killed in street fighting between communists and moderates.

Canton was the first capital of the nationalists in the days of the late Dr. Sun Yat Sen, and gave his name to the nationalists, who still are known as Cantonese.

General Li Chai-Sun, adherent of Chiang Kai-Shek, moderate leader, staged a successful anti-Bolshevik coup d'etat, it was reported.

The foreign settlement was not endangered by the fighting.

General Li unexpectedly raided labor union and communist headquarters in Canton yesterday, following the lead of General Chiang in Shanghai last week.

Armed communists resisted the raids and bloody fighting through the streets was reported.

Hundreds of alleged communists were arrested.

Police raided two hotels in Hongkong today as a precautionary measure, fearing agitators from Canton had fled to this city after the raids. No arrests were made.

Shanghai, April 16.—United States warships in the Yangtze river were frequently under Chinese fire today but in all instances were able to silence the snipers with large guns. One man was wounded in the leg aboard the destroyer Preble.

The U. S. S. Cincinnati, Ford and Preble were fired on. Most of the Chinese shooting apparently was done by north China troops who returned to the north bank of the Yangtze river after having been driven beyond it by the nationalist advance last month.

The Cincinnati did not halt during its brush with Chinese on the river bank.

Northern troops in trenches abreast of the Ford at Nanking fired on the Standard Oil vessel Melan and the Ford returned the fire with machine guns. The British gunboat Emerald assisted the Ford and the Chinese turned their guns on the American warship, scoring frequent hits but without casualties. The Ford silenced the Chinese with four inch shrapnel.

The Preble opened her main battery against northern fire from the Kiangyin forts and silenced the Chinese. Machine guns and four inch guns were employed by the Preble during the several minutes in which shots were exchanged.

The Chinese general labor unions today ordered the entire membership of 800,000 to strike in protest against the disarming of laborers by moderate nationalist soldiers.

PRES. COOLIDGE FAVORS WISCONSIN FOR VACATION

Washington, April 16.—(UP)—President Coolidge's scout seeking a summer vacation site has failed to find a definite place for him yet, it was learned today. The president is understood still to favor Wisconsin if he can obtain accommodations he desires.

KILLS 8 OF 2 CHICAGO FAMILIES

4 STORES WRECKED BY BLAST,
NEIGHBORHOOD IS SHAKEN

NONE OF THE BODIES HAVE BEEN POSITIVELY IDENTIFIED

Chicago, April 16.—(UP)—Explosion of a still or accumulated gas killed eight members of two families in a west side tenement today.

Four stores were wrecked by the blast and buildings for many blocks around were shaken.

Mayme Sokolsky, 17, thought to have been in the building, spent last night with friends. She was found several hours after the explosion while police were searching the ruins believing they would find her body.

Police later announced their belief that a moonshiner's still was responsible for the blast which caused all the walls of the store building to collapse from the inside.

Police and firemen entered the debris almost immediately, facing the danger of added explosions and in a few minutes had brought out eight bodies—none of which were positively identified.

In the demolished building lived Abe Levin, his wife and two children, Albert, 20, and Lee, 14; and Albert Sokolsky and his wife and three children, Rose 16, Anna 14, and Samuel 15. All members of these two families were believed to have been asleep when the explosion came.

OPERATED STILL, GETS YEAR IN PENITENTIARY

St. Paul, April 16.—(UP)—Judge John B. Sanborn today sentenced Richard Lindberg to a year and a day at Leavenworth penitentiary for violation of the prohibition law. Lindberg pleaded guilty to operating a still on his farm near Rosemount, Minn.

Six other men, one from Minneapolis, one from New Brighton and the others of St. Paul, were sentenced to terms in the Ramsey county jail ranging from 90 days to six months.

BODY OF AVIATOR BROUGHT TO FARGO

Fargo, N. D., April 16.—(UP)—The body of Capt. Homer I. Sands, killed in an airplane accident at Bolling Field, Washington, D. C., was brought to Fargo today for burial.

Funeral services are to be held at 3 p. m. today.

The accident occurred last Wednesday while Capt. Sands was on a trial flight with John L. Hosh. Hosh was seriously hurt.

Capt. Sands is survived by the widow who resides here.

ARMS AND SUPPLIES TAKEN FROM LIBERALS OF NICARAGUA

Washington, April 15.—(UP)—Capture by government forces of additional arms and ammunition supplies from liberal troops in Nicaragua was reported to the navy department today by Admiral Julian L. Latimer.

Latimer said the liberals' machine gun strength had been reduced to 10. He said the Managua government had advised him of the capture of 184,000 rounds of small arms ammunition and eight machine guns.

SHOOTING IS AFTERMATH OF AN ARGUMENT

Philadelphia, Pa., April 16.—(UP)—As an aftermath of an argument Edward Bustard, 26, was shot and killed without warning today as he talked to two companions on a street corner.

Armed communists resisted the raids and bloody fighting through the streets was reported.

Hundreds of alleged communists were arrested.

Police raided two hotels in Hongkong today as a precautionary measure, fearing agitators from Canton had fled to this city after the raids. No arrests were made.

Shanghai, April 16.—United States warships in the Yangtze river were frequently under Chinese fire today but in all instances were able to silence the snipers with large guns.

One man was wounded in the leg aboard the destroyer Preble.

The U. S. S. Cincinnati, Ford and Preble were fired on. Most of the Chinese shooting apparently was done by north China troops who returned to the north bank of the Yangtze river after having been driven beyond it by the nationalist advance last month.

The Cincinnati did not halt during its brush with Chinese on the river bank.

Northern troops in trenches abreast of the Ford at Nanking fired on the Standard Oil vessel Mejan and the Ford returned the fire with machine guns. The British gunboat Emerald assisted the Ford and the Chinese turned their guns on the American warship, scoring frequent hits but without casualties. The Ford silenced the Chinese with four inch shrapnel.

The Preble opened her main battery against northern fire from the Kiangyin forts and silenced the Chinese. Machine guns and four inch guns were employed by the Preble during the several minutes in which shots were exchanged.

The Chinese general labor unions today ordered the entire membership of 800,000 to strike in protest against the disarming of laborers by moderate nationalist soldiers.

PRES. COOLIDGE FAVORS WISCONSIN FOR VACATION

Washington, April 16.—(UP)—President Coolidge's scout seeking a summer vacation site has failed to find a definite place for him yet, it was learned today. The president is understood still to favor Wisconsin if he can obtain accommodations he desires.

KILLS 8 OF 2 CHICAGO FAMILIES

4 STORES WRECKED BY BLAST,
NEIGHBORHOOD IS SHAKEN

NONE OF THE BODIES HAVE BEEN
POSITIVELY IDENTIFIED

Chicago, April 16.—(UP)—Explosion of a still or accumulated gas killed eight members of two families in a west side tenement today.

Four stores were wrecked by the blast and buildings for many blocks around were shaken.

Mayme Sokolsky, 17, thought to have been in the building, spent last night with friends. She was found several hours after the explosion while police were searching the ruins believing they would find her body.

Police later announced their belief that a moonshiner's still was responsible for the blast which caused all the walls of the store building to collapse from the inside.

Police and firemen entered the debris almost immediately, facing the danger of added explosions and in a few minutes had brought out eight bodies—none of which were positively identified.

In the demolished building lived Abe Levin, his wife and two children, Albert, 20, and Lee, 14; and Albert Sokolsky and his wife and three children, Rose, 16, Anna, 14, and Samuel, 15. All members of these two families were believed to have been asleep when the explosion came.

OPERATED STILL, GETS YEAR IN PENITENTIARY

St. Paul, April 16.—(UP)—Judge John B. Sanborn today sentenced Richard Lindberg to a year and a day at Leavenworth penitentiary for violation of the prohibition law. Lindberg pleaded guilty to operating a still on his farm near Rosemount, Minn.

Six other men, one from Minneapolis, one from New Brighton and the others of St. Paul, were sentenced to terms in the Ramsey county jail ranging from 90 days to six months.

BODY OF AVIATOR BROUGHT TO FARGO

Fargo, N. D., April 16.—(UP)—The body of Capt. Homer I. Sands, killed in an airplane accident at Bolling Field, Washington, D. C., was brought to Fargo today for burial.

Funeral services are to be held at 3 p. m. today.

The accident occurred last Wednesday while Capt. Sands was on a trial flight with John L. Hosch. Hosch was seriously hurt.

Capt. Sands is survived by the widow who resides here.

ARMS AND SUPPLIES TAKEN FROM LIBERALS OF NICARAGUA

Washington, April 15.—(UP)—Capture by government forces of additional arms and ammunition supplies from liberal troops in Nicaragua was reported to the navy department today by Admiral Julian L. Latimer.

Latimer said the liberals' machine gun strength had been reduced to 10. He said the Managua government had advised him of the capture of 184,000 rounds of small arms ammunition and eight machine guns.

SHOOTING IS AFTERMATH OF AN ARGUMENT

Philadelphia, Pa., April 16.—(UP)—As an aftermath of an argument Edward Bustard, 26, was shot and killed without warning today as he talked to two companions on a street corner.

The shooting was done, according to witnesses, by Edward Conquest, 35, who escaped after a struggle in which he was disarmed by William and James Kelly, brothers, who were with Bustard at the time.

MERRIFIELD NEWS NOTES

Among the cottagers who have lake homes at Merrifield on North Long Lake are J. P. Anderson, Sam Parker, W. W. Smythe, Frank Lowey Geo. Coppersmith, W. E. Brockway, C. C. Davis, E. L. Orth, A. Smeades, George Senn, R. D. King, Mons Mahlum and D. K. Fullerton, of Brainerd; Tom Leslie, Ed. Nygaard, Big and Little Flickinger, and E. Newton of Minneapolis.

Three new homes have been built recently, belonging to A. T. Groves, Ed. Miller and Wayne Haff.

Mrs. M. A. Brouson is getting ready for the tourist season, and her hotel, the "Wigwam," is being painted both inside and out.

It is estimated that $10,000 worth of pulpwood was brought into Merrifield during the past winter and shipped on the M. & I. and N. P. to the Northwest Paper Co. at Cloquet. Perry Haff & Son have started a new sawmill here.

Mervyn Bowmann was taken to the hospital at Brainerd for an operation on his foot.

The waters of Long Lake are 18 inches higher than they were a year ago.

The residence occupied by Sam Parker measures 36 by 36 feet inside, doubly lined with insulation. The home has a Delco plant for illumination, with hot and cold water, bath and toilet, and an electric pump for water supply. It is located just north of the store on the same side of the highway.

Quinn Parker, postmaster and storekeeper of Merrifield had his tonsils removed last week at a Brainerd hospital.

MERRIFIELD NEWS NOTES

Among the cottagers who have lake homes at Merrifield on North Long Lake are J. P. Anderson, Sam Parker, W. W. Smythe, Frank Lowey, Geo. Coppersmith, W. E. Brockway, C. C. Davis, E. L. Orth, A. Smades, George Senn, R. D. King, Mons Mahlum and D. K. Fullerton, of Brainerd; Tom Leslie, Ed. Nygaard, Big and Little Flickinger, and E. Newton of Minneapolis.

Three new homes have been built recently, belonging to A. T. Groves, Ed. Miller and Wayne Haff.

Mrs. M. A. Bronson is getting ready for the tourist season, and her hotel, the "Wigwam," is being painted both inside and out.

It is estimated that $10,000 worth of pulpwood was brought into Merrifield during the past winter and shipped on the M. & I. and N. P. to the Northwest Paper Co. at Cloquet.

Perry Haff & Son have started a new sawmill here.

Mervyn Bowmann was taken to the hospital at Brainerd for an operation on his foot.

The waters of Long Lake are 18 inches higher than they were a year ago.

The residence occupied by Sam Parker measures 36 by 36 feet inside, doubly lined with insulation. The home has a Delco plant for illumination, with hot and cold water, bath and toilet, and an electric pump for water supply. It is located just north of the store on the same side of the highway.

Quinn Parker, postmaster and storekeeper of Merrifield had his tonsils removed last week at a Brainerd hospital.

Cossette Creek, for the first time, in five years, has water running within its banks.

Last Saturday Mrs. Blanche Balmor of Duluth and Cross Lake entertained at Mrs. Bronson's "The Wigwam" at a 7 o'clock dinner, which was followed by an evening of bridge.

GIFTS RICH IN HISTORICAL INTEREST

To be Presented This Month to National Society, Daughters of American Revolution

MRS. M. A. BRONSON DONOR

Latter Has Been Collector of Rare Treasures for Many Years

Gifts, rich in historical interest, are to be presented this month to the national society, Daughters of the American Revolution.

Valuable gifts are presented each year by state chapters to the national society to be placed in Memorial Continental hall, but none will be more valuable than those to be presented by the Minnesota society, D. A. R. at the annual congress which opens in Washington, D. C., April 18.

They are to be taken to Washington and presented by Mrs. Wesley J. Jameson, outgoing state regent, in behalf of the Samuel Huntington chapter of Brainerd, the gifts of Martha Ann Bronson, of Merrifield, a direct descendant of John and Priscilla Alden. Mrs. Bronson has been a collector of rare treasures for many years, and among her gifts are articles any lover of history would cherish.

Among the gifts is a silk shawl that graced the shoulders of Priscilla Alden and also a pewter plate used in the Alden family. Other gifts include a genuine Wedgewood tile bearing the name of the maker, Josiah Wedgewood and Son, on which is a delicately drawn design of Red Riding Hood's old grandmother and the villainous wolf. Another gift is an old snuff box still carrying the snuff of its owner in '76; a hand woven tablecloth edged with linen lace made in 1830, and accompanying this gift is the shuttle used in its weaving as well as some of the remaining linen.

A collection of rare old books is among the gifts including an old and yellowed copy of "Psalms of David" by Timothy Dwight, formerly president of Yale college. It was published in 1814.

BRAINERD 25 YEARS AGO

From the Daily Dispatch

April 14, 1902

Mrs. Henry Ribbel entertained a large number of friends Saturday afternoon at her home on Fifth street North.

Mrs. Fanny Smith and daughter Miss Eloise Smith left for Minneapolis this afternoon.

Workmen have nearly finished the excavation for the new Patek-Opahl building.

There was quite a bad accident in East Brainerd last night when a lady riding on a bicycle collided with a buggy. The lady was thrown to the ground and quite badly hurt. Her name was not learned.

There was a conference this morning of the laundry men of the city, and it is said another merger is on tap, notwithstanding the edict, "back to the laundry" there will be no strike tonight.

Lars Eriksson of Erikssonville, a little village south of Mille Lacs lake has decided to move to this city and will engage in the real estate business.

Staples was as dry as a chip, Sunday, the first time in years. The saloons were closed for the entire day under the regime of Mayor

Smith, recently elected, and he has given it out that the order will have to stand and there will be no deviation.

April 15, 1902

Mrs. Julia McDonald went to Fargo this noon for a few days visit with friends.

The St. Cloud clerks are making an effort to have all grocery stores close at 7 o'clock except Saturday and will probably succeed.

Paine and McGinn are about to put in a stock of package and canned goods with their meat business, shelves for this purpose just being erected.

It was necessary for the Brainerd Lumber Co. to close down its mills for a few nights on account of the heavy frost hindering in the getting in of the logs. The logs have begun to move however and they expect to run nights again commencing tomorrow night.

Miss Mayme Holden left last night for Beaulieu, Norman county, where she has accepted a position in the Indian school as assistant seamstress.

Mr. Stewart of the Pine Tree Lumber Co. went to Pine River today.

This morning a deal was closed whereby the Joseph Kiebler farm was sold to C. W. Eastman.

April 16, 1902

Contractor Ed. Jackson of Duluth arrived in the city this morning and is making arrangements to commence work at once on St. Joseph's hospital. The new hospital will be a gem, a model of modern hospital equipment and an adornment to the city. The new structure completed will cost in the neighborhood of $30,000. The foundation for the new building was built last fall and everything is ready to proceed with the super-structure. The building will be completed in about three months.

Captain Nelson of Company F has made all arrangements for the target season which has already opened up, but which on account of the rather unfavorable season of the weather has not awakened the enthusiasm yet. The ranges have all been put in shape and the year will in all probability be a successful one. Capt. Nelson expects that the Kraag-Jorgeson rifles will arrive in a few weeks and they will be used almost entirely in the practice shoots.

C. B. White is at Long Lake with a crew of men making some additions and improvements on C. N. Parker's lake property.

Mrs. Walter Davis and daughter Miss Maude Davis returned this afternoon from the east after an extended visit.

Mr. and Mrs. G. D. Ball returned yesterday from Minneapolis where they have been for some time.

Birds Foretell Weather

The bird comes in for its share of weather foresight. Besides seagulls flying low as a sign of rain, birds flying south early in the fall means the early coming of winter.

LOU'S BAND TO PLAY

Funds of Department to be Enriched by Large Attendance Anticipated

The first dance to be held after the Lenten season will be given under the auspices of the Brainerd Fire department on Monday evening, April 18. The U. C. T. auditorium has been secured and Lou's band will furnish the music.

A large crowd is expected to turn out after the season of quiet and the committee has made every effort to make the dance a success. The Firemen's balls are famous among the dance lovers of the city and a record attendance always turns out to have an enjoyable time and to swell the funds of the department.

Why buy one without 4-wheel brakes?

The Whippet has 4-wheel brakes, for your greater safety—modern traffic conditions demand this safety. With 22,000,000 automobiles on the highways it is only sound judgment to have maximum protection. The Whippet is the only light car offering 4-wheel brakes as national standard equipment.

Speed—55 miles an hour in comfort and safety.

Acceleration—5 to 30 miles an hour in 13 seconds. The getaway expected in expensive cars.

Unequaled economy—thousands of Whippet owners say they never knew a light car could be run so economically on gas and oil.

Oversize tires—another plus-value feature you get in the Whippet.

Snubbers—all light cars should have them for smoother, easier riding.

Adjustable steering wheel—the Whippet fits itself to you, long or short, fat or thin.

Force-feed lubrication—like on the Willys-Knight and other higher priced cars.

Silent timing chain—for quieter operation.

More room—the Whippet gives you more leg room than any other light car.

The Telephone Pole Ad Is a Thing of the Past

In the old days when every farmer drove the plough-horse to town, he had time to amble along and read the sale bills on the way.

Now the average farmer has his eyes glued to the road while driving his car, and the telephone poles fly by like pickets on a fence.

Newspaper advertising is just as far ahead of telephone pole bills as the auto is ahead of the horse. Both are necessary and do good work. But the newspaper, like the auto, gets more done quicker.

For the Newspaper is taken into the home and read at leisure. It is originally purchased because its particular editorial policy—its individual newsmanship appeals, and the reader has confidence in its judgment. This confidence is reflected on the ads that that Newspaper carries and the advertisers get the benefit of this feeling of dependability.

An ad in this paper is bound to bring results. We can help you prepare it, and can supply you with attractive illustrations to use in it.

Let our ad man call and help you with your advertising.

SATURDAY, APRIL 16, 1927

NATIONAL ADVERTISING

THE Elks Temple dedication ceremonies on April 23 bring to the attention of the world the fact that the temple has been completed and that visiting Elks are assured here of a station where comfort and sustenance will be provided on the journey through the lake region about Brainerd.

The Elks magazine, a splendid journal of the order gaining national circulation as well as following the Elk to whatever section of the globe he may have residence, publishes gratis on a large page the names and locations of all Elks homes providing suitable accommodations.

Brainerd Temple, of the Minnesota section, will now be listed with Minneapolis, St. Cloud and Little Falls. This list of Minnesota and all the states of the Union is scanned with attention by all Elks.

In our travels eastward on two occasions as an Elks delegate, we tested these various homes and the accommodations they have to offer. The Elks home, or temple as it is called throughout the east, always has a hospitable welcome and does much to bring the community to the favorable attention of the visitor.

At Atlantic City the home facilities had far outgrown the demand and a new home was being considered, which has since been built. At Philadelphia accommodations were taxed to the utmost by the flood of visitors and a new and much larger home was in contemplation, which has since been built.

New York lodge has a regular sky-scraper of a home, with a roof garden and restaurant on the top floor. Washington, D. C., has a most beautiful home and the caretaker is pleased to show you a room just loaded with priceless relics of members and Elksdom.

Pittsburgh has a fine home and Chicago's is in the loop district. Milwaukee has a splendid home. Boston built a large home, pressed by increase of membership and the many visitors.

St. Paul and Minneapolis homes are beautiful and membership growth is causing both to consider larger quarters. Little Falls is about to add an 18-room addition, thus doubling its accommodations.

Wherever one goes, one finds an Elks home that provides the finest of accommodations as to rooms, and also gives a meal service second to none.

With the opening of Brainerd's Elks Temple we stand on the threshold of receiving many Elks visitors and it is very appropriate that the opening thus occurs well in advance of the start of our summer resort and tourist season.

The fact that our Brainerd Elks temple was practically financed in Brainerd gives each stockholder a real interest in the success of that home. The temple has the goodwill of many Brainerd people and of Brainerd Elks whether in the city or located in other states.

SEEING RED

THE Staples World takes up a phase of current events which will strike the average citizen as being near the truth. It seems that whenever a strike, or a war, or a revolution, or any other disturbance is under way, the hint of Russian influence is made and the whole world sees the prominent color of red.

Says the World: "Eight years after the 'war to end war' was fought to a conclusion, two-thirds of the population of the earth is engaged in killing one another or threatening to become engaged in bloody conflict. No part of the world is free from it. In Europe, in the Orient, in the western hemisphere men are fighting on battlefields.

"The war to end wars brought millions of peaceful young men to the colors and ten millions of them died on battlefields. Now it all seems a hollow mockery.

"During those days everything was blamed on Germany. Today it is poor crippled, half organized Russia. After 150 years of British exploitation, India demands home rule. Italy is reaching out for more territory, and France proposes to fortify all borders. Egypt, Ireland, South Africa and even Canada seeks independence and self determination, all due to Russia. Mexico's attempt to re-establish education, economic and political life is Bolshevik. And above all the revolution in China against foreign exploitations is laid at the doors of Moscow.

"Since when has Russia become such a power as to make the whole world 'see red'? The situation is so chaotic, so pregnant with international troubles, world-wide in their ramifications that there is no longer any willingness to make peace moves.

"The astute observer declares that it is a backwash of the great war which aroused and let loose the forces of nationalism. If so, there will be serious clashes for years to come."

THE VALUE OF A PAVED HIGHWAY

THE value of a paved highway, good all the year around, is noticeable here in Brainerd where No. 27, connecting Brainerd with the Twin Cities and on south to the Iowa border, has been open every day with the exception of a few hours when snow was being removed.

Now that the spring breakup is upon us, we realize still more the value of this paved road. Out in the country, off the main highways, where snow was not removed, these roads are slowly drying. A few of the gravel roads held up, noticeably the gravel from Nisswa to Pequot and beyond.

Last year brought an unprecedented lot of moisture in the shape of rain and snow. Lakes are higher than for many years. The reason is not hard to locate. The moisture has permeated the ground and the lake water is thus nicely kept in its lake bed, because possibility of seepage to an abnormally dry soil has been obviated. The spongy, dry soil of past years, which seeped moisture from the lakes, is this year so filled with water that it acts as a bank preventing the lake from draining off its waters.

In the same way our highways, wet from thawing frost and snow, have little opportunity to shed or drain off their excess moisture until the nearby soil is ready to receive it. That is what will lengthen the term of our so-called spring breakup.

SOME people seem to get a great deal out of life by not expecting too much, says the Park Rapids Enterprise.

THE jaywalkers of Brainerd had better watch their step when tourist traffic speeds up in Brainerd.

Only Alice and Dicky

By DOROTHY DOUGLAS

(Copyright.)

JOAN'S heart was beating rather excitedly while she inserted the key in the lock of the door of John Allen's flat. She realized, with a tremendous sense of happiness that before very long she would be entering it as Mrs. John Allen.

John would be returning the following day from an enforced rest from the strain of business and Joan, as a surprise, was going to put the flat in order with broom and duster and a huge armful of red roses.

Joan went singing about her task, and, with a big colored handkerchief of John's tied about her sunny hair and a big apron on, she swept with much vigor.

Joan hadn't got farther than the desk with its typewriter and scattered books when the song abruptly left her lips and heart.

She wasn't snooping about but no one could have helped seeing the letter rearing its head from the carriage of the typewriter.

"Most Beloved Alice: I am writing this little note just to tell you how empty this holiday is going to be without you—you're such a help to a fellow and during all our happy trips together you have seemed just a part of myself. I don't see what I'm going to do without you. The folks at home are going to get very few letters from me for I shall be wishing so constantly for you that my heart won't be in the letters. Good old pal—I'll be glad to get back to you—my fingers will ache to touch you and I'll miss your happy chatter. Yours, John."

It was difficult, notwithstanding the evidence of her own eyes, to believe in John's duplicity and what's more Joan did not intend to behave as a "movie" heroine. She wasn't going to go secretly out of John's life.

"No," said Joan to herself as she walked unseeing up Broadway, "I shall have a frank talk with John and find out just why he has been loving this Alice and planning to marry me." She bought one or two magazines to keep her mind from thinking too much since there was no explanation coming until John himself had given it.

"But, that was where Joan was wrong. She didn't know, until later in the evening, while reading one of her magazines, that people became so attached to inanimate possessions as to give them human names. This article in particular was a two-column eulogy on a typewriter—faithful friend and true, which went by the name of Mary-Anne.

A slow smile dawned in Joan's eyes and deep in her heart. She knew, beyond a doubt, that John's letter was written to his little machine which was as inseparable a companion on all his business trips as his very boots. "I should have known," said Joan to herself but at the same time a wicked smile lurked in the corner of her lips. "Just the same, I'm going to play a little game of tit-for-tat and show my best beloved how easily love affairs can be smashed if one hasn't a fairly level head."

Consequently, when John Allen returned to his flat feeling as fit as a fiddle and keenly anxious to see the girl who was sole mistress of his heart, he found a letter from her instead. And as he opened the envelope and looked at the beginning he knew that Joan had written two letters at the same time and most obviously enclosed the wrong one in his envelope. He read:

"My Own Precious Dicky: Yes, I agree that you and I should have one more glorious jaunt into the country before I take my vows at the altar. It will not be so easy for us after that for, as you know, my family, and I fancy my intended husband, object most strenuously to you and always imagine I am running into danger. You and I are both so old-fashioned and simple in our tastes that I don't see how I am going to live without you. But, honey, perhaps we can manage—even after my marriage—I shall certainly try. Meantime, about dusk tomorrow evening we will start off together and go out into the glorious moonlight night. Until tomorrow. Dicky. Devotedly, Joan."

John Allen was white when he finished the letter. He went straight to the telephone and demanded an interview with Joan.

"There's been a mistake of some kind and I want to know what's what," he told her and in less than half an hour was facing his innocent-eyed sweetheart with so stony an expression in his hurt eyes that Joan almost flew into his arms at once.

"This letter," said John coldly, "must have come to me by mistake—I suppose 'Dicky dear' is having the pleasure of reading one intended for me."

Joan took the letter and glanced at it then stifled her smiles and glared back at John.

"I suppose I may be permitted the same privileges as you regarding an extra pal. If you think you can run about on trips with fair Alice and court me at the same time you are very much mistaken."

John's gasp of surprise was mingled with laughter.

"Joan—don't be silly. You know very well that Alice is my typewriter—I couldn't love anyone but you."

"Don't be silly yourself," laughed Joan. "Dicky is my bike!"

Bamboo Acclaimed as Most Valuable Plant

There has lately been an inquiry into the question, What is the most useful plant in the world? and the prize has gone to the bamboo. It is said that the East, South Africa and the West Indies could not exist without it.

The bamboo is a hollow reed which may grow a few feet high or a hundred. Sometimes its stem is round, sometimes square, and the square kind is very useful for ladders or scaffolding. All sorts of things, massive or delicate, are made from the stems. Houses are built of them, and they make water pipes and ships' masts, beds and tables, prison cages for criminals, handles for agricultural implements, penholders, umbrellas and rods for bad boys! The young roots make good food, and so do the seeds, which may be cooked like rice or used for a beverage, while the leaves can be used for thatching or weaving into clothes and mats. Verily, few plants do so many things for man.

Miles of Thread Used in Clothing Humanity

Statistics show that every inch of cloth contains about 25 threads running downward and the same number running across it, so that a square yard is composed of 1,800 threads, each a yard in length.

The average suit or costume needs four square yards of cloth, so that every man or woman wears something like four miles of wool.

Allowing two sets of clothes a year, we find that each of us uses 400 miles of wool in fifty years.

When we come to linen or cotton goods, with 80 or 100 threads each way to the inch, the total length of threads becomes appalling. A single handkerchief may contain 2,400 strands, each 15 inches long, so that 1,000 yards of cotton thread are required to make it.

A shirt represents about three miles of thread.

Xerxes' Mighty Army

Xerxes, the Persian king, used an odd method to count his soldiers before the battle of Thermopylae in 480 B. C. He had the greatest army of invasion that ever had been seen upon the earth when he moved against the Greeks. He wanted to know how many fighting men there were, so he had 10,000 of them counted and they were hurled into as dense a mass as possible and a wall was built around the space they occupied. Then the whole army entered the enclosure in detachments so that the number of times it was filled, multiplied by 10,000, was approximately the total of the invading forces. This figure, according to Herodotus, was 1,700,000 foot soldiers and 80,000 cavalry. With attendants and the sailors and soldiers of the fleet added, he brought the total up to 2,317,000.

Why Salesmen Age

A Kansas City woman bought a compass for a Christmas gift for her husband. Next morning she took it back to the store, complaining that there was something the matter with it. "You see," she explained, "it points in the same direction all the time, no matter which way you turn it." "It ought to do that, madam," said the salesman, "it should point to the north all the time."

"But I don't want that kind of a compass. I want one that will point east when we are driving east and west when—" According to Capper's Weekly, the salesman was reported late in the day to be "doing as well as could be expected."

Odd Things Done at Fires

Excitable persons who at a fire have thrown valuable mirrors out the window and carried out pillows may find consolation in the action of an Australian who braved the danger of a blaze in a saloon to throw several dozens bottles of liquor out the window onto a paved highway. More recently a nearby blacksmith shop burned, and the same fire hero ran to the shop and emerged with a heavy object in his arms. "I had to save it," he said. "It was the poor man's living." Then he dropped an anvil on the ground.

Registering Emotion

Four-year-old Jimmie was fond of candy. One day, after he had eaten all he should have, his aunt put the sack out of his reach. Jimmie, not liking this, tried to think of some way by which he might receive one more piece.

"Uncle Billy, if I cried would auntie give me another piece of candy?" hopefully asked Jimmie.

When Uncle Billy replied that she might, Jimmie studied a minute, then had an idea.

"Slap me, Uncle Billy, so I can cry."

Mercury's Many Uses

Mercury is an element sometimes found native, but mostly derived from cinnabar. Normally, by far the greater part of the world's production of mercury is used in extracting gold and silver from their ores. In 1911 and 1912, owing to the European war it was used mainly in the manufacture of fulminate for explosive caps. It is also used in the manufacture of drugs, of electric appliances and of scientific apparatus, thermometers, barometers and for marking vermillion. Mercury is found in California and Colorado.

HEDDA HOYT TELLS—ABOUT EASTER FASHIONS

By HEDDA HOYT

New York, April 14. — (UP)—Easter fashions will be quite as beautiful as ever this year and they will be far more varied in silhouette than they have been for some years.

Long coats worn over silk crepe frocks will share honors with simple little tailored suits and dressy ensemble suits. Last season, as you know, coats worn over harmonizing frocks ruled the early Spring season. This year, suits will be quite as conspicuous as coat and frock combinations.

Long coats are differentiated from those of the previous season in various ways. Often they are collarless and have bows of self-fabric posed upon one side of the neck line. Again, bows are placed at the back of an upstanding collar. Fur is seldom used for collars except when it extends from shoulder to hem line at both fronts. Skirts of coats are straight-lined and seldom fur-trimmed. Various silk and woolen fabric are being used. Just now we see much of the beige coat that is trimmed with cocoa-colored American broadtail. Black and white combinations are used repeatedly. All shades of fox fur is stressed as well as some of the shorter-haired furs, such as ivory-dyed ermine and the clipped furs.

Suits, both plain and double-breasted are being stressed. Black and navy blue are the favored suit colors. Although straight lines prevail for both suits and long coats, there are instances where rear caplets are used on both suits and coats.

Fox animal scarfs are by all means the smartest of fur-pieces. Double animals of fox are new this season and may be worn as long stoles or thrown over one shoulder with one animal hanging at the rear.

Both coats and suit show evidence of tucking and seamwork this year. Fabric manipulation is more highly estimated than ornamentation of another sort. Skirts remain short, silhouettes slender and hip-lines snugly fitted.

Petrified Wood

Petrification of wood is the result of water carrying in solution certain chemicals, especially silica or quartz. The wood becomes saturated with the water and each particle of wood is replaced, atom for atom, by the silica. We speak of a tree turning to stone becoming petrified. The wood does not "turn to" stone, but is replaced by "stone."

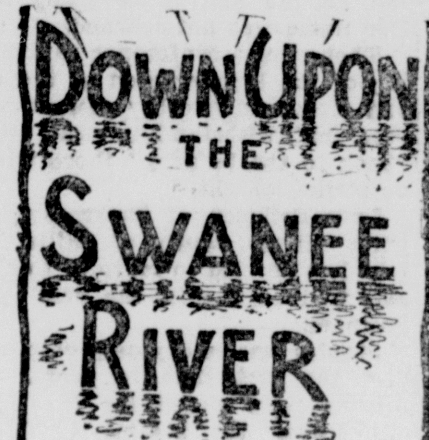

Famous Apples

The Baldwin apple was raised near Lowell, Mass., about 1750. The Jonathan and Northern Spy were grown in New York, the Grimes Golden in West Virginia and the Maiden Blush in various places before 1800. The Red Astrachan was imported from Russia in 1835, the Rome Beauty was grown in Ohio by 1848, the Stayman Winesap appeared in Kansas in 1866 and the Delicious in Iowa in 1895.

NATIONAL ADVERTISING

THE Elks Temple dedication ceremonies on April 23 bring to the attention of the world the fact that the temple has been completed and that visiting Elks are assured here of a station where comfort and sustenance will be provided on the journey through the lake region about Brainerd.

The Elks magazine, a splendid journal of the order gaining national circulation as well as following the Elk to whatever section of the globe he may have residence, publishes gratis on a large page the names and locations of all Elks homes providing suitable accommodations.

Brainerd Temple, of the Minnesota section, will now be listed with Minneapolis, St. Cloud and Little Falls. This list of Minnesota and all the states of the Union is scanned with attention by all Elks.

In our travels eastward on two occasions as an Elks delegate, we tested these various homes and the accommodations they have to offer. The Elks home, or temple as it is called throughout the east, always has a hospitable welcome and does much to bring the community to the favorable attention of the visitor.

At Atlantic City the home facilities had far outgrown the demand and a new home was being considered, which has since been built. At Philadelphia accommodations were taxed to the utmost by the flood of visitors and a new and much larger home was in contemplation, which has since been built.

New York lodge has a regular sky-scraper of a home, with a roof garden and restaurant on the top floor. Washington, D. C., has a most beautiful home and the caretaker is pleased to show you a room just loaded with priceless relics of members and Elksdom.

Pittsburgh has a fine home and Chicago's is in the loop district. Milwaukee has a splendid home. Boston built a large home, pressed by increase of membership and the many visitors.

St. Paul and Minneapolis homes are beautiful and membership growth is causing both to consider larger quarters. Little Falls is about to add an 18-room addition, thus doubling its accommodations.

Wherever one goes, one finds an Elks home that provides the finest of accommodations as to rooms, and also gives a meal service second to none.

With the opening of Brainerd's Elks Temple we stand on the threshold of receiving many Elks visitors and it is very appropriate that the opening thus occurs well in advance of the start of our summer resort and tourist season.

The fact that our Brainerd Elks temple was practically financed in Brainerd gives each stockholder a real interest in the success of that home. The temple has the goodwill of many Brainerd people and of Brainerd Elks whether in the city or located in other states.

New York, April 14. — (UP)—Easter fashions will be quite as beautiful as ever this year and they will be far more varied in silhouette than they have been for some years.

Long coats worn over silk crepe frocks will share honors with simple little tailored suits and dressy ensembles. Last season, as you know, coats worn over harmonizing frocks ruled the early Spring season. This year, suits will be quite as conspicuous as coat and frock combinations.

Long coats are differentiated from those of the previous season in various ways. Often they are collarless and have bows of self-fabric posed upon one side of the neck line. Again, bows are placed at the back of an upstanding collar. Fur is seldom used for collars except when it extends from shoulder to hem line at both fronts. Skirts of coats are straight-lined and seldom fur-trimmed. Various silk and woolen fabric are being used. Just now we see much of the beige coat that is trimmed with cocoa-colored American broadtail. Black and white combinations are used repeatedly. All shades of fox fur is stressed as well as some of the shorter-haired furs such as ivory-dyed ermine and the clipped furs.

Suits, both plain and double-breasted are being stressed. Black and navy blue are the favored suit colors. Although straight lines prevail for both suits and long coats, there are instances where rear capelets are used on both suits and coats.

Fox animal scarfs are by all means the smartest of fur-pieces. Double animals of fox are new this season and may be worn as long stoles or thrown over one shoulder with one animal hanging at the rear.

Both coats and suit show evidence of tucking and seamwork this year. Fabric manipulation is more highly estimated than ornamentation of another sort. Skirts remain short, silhouettes slender and hip-lines snugly fitted.

Think of having one of America's great dance organizations at your beck and call. Listen to the crooning saxophone carrying the melody. The plinkety-plank of the banjos underneath beating a rhythmic accompaniment. Now the clarinet with its toe-teasing cadence. Now the guttural "bong" of the bass sax or the mellow "oomp" of the big brass tuba. Who can resist dance music like this?

Petrified Wood

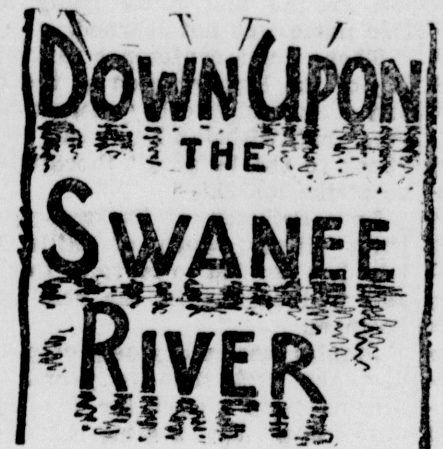

Petrification of wood is the result of water carrying in solution certain chemicals, especially silica or quartz. The wood becomes saturated with the water and each particle of wood is replaced, atom for atom, by the silica. We speak of a tree turning to stone becoming petrified. The wood does not "turn to" stone, but is replaced by "stone."

Famous Apples

The Baldwin apple was raised near Lowell, Mass., about 1750. The Jonathan and Northern Spy were grown in New York, the Grimes Golden in West Virginia and the Maiden Blush in various places before 1800. The Red Astrachan was imported from Russia in 1835, the Rome Beauty was grown in Ohio by 1848, the Stayman Winesap appeared in Kansas in 1893 and the Delicious in Iowa in 1895.

ALL the world is beautiful at Eastertide! It is as if the tired earth, after incarceration in the tomb of Winter, had truly "risen again."

The stately lily shows its pale white face, and in little home gardens there is spiritual beauty in the first timid violets, the crocus beds and the yellow pools of gold, which are jonquils of Spring.

The season is fair with thoughts of new beauties, new ambitions and profoundly deep reverence. What more fitting time to think of your own home garden as a chalice of radiant flowers—your house, inside and out, a place that fills the human heart with optimism, gratitude and gladness!

BABE RUTH RETURNS TO SWATTING ROLE

BRINGS DEEP SATISFACTION TO MANY FANS

POLES LONG DRIVE INTO RIGHT FIELD BLEACHERS YESTERDAY

STARTS YANKEES OFF IN THIRD STRAIGHT VICTORY OVER ATHLETICS

(By United Press)

Yesterday's hero—Babe Ruth, who returned to his familiar home run role with a long drive into the right field bleachers in the first inning and started the New York Yankees off to their third straight victory over the Philadelphia Athletics. The score was 6 to 3.

There was nothing spectacular about Ruth's home run, the bases were empty when it was made, and later developments proved it was not needed for the Yankees to win, but home runs are what the Bambino is paid for and in starting his 1927 string he brought satisfaction to the thousands who believe in his greatness.

The Yankees made one run in each of the first four innings and two in seventh while Herb Pennock was holding the A's to seven hits, several of which were bunched in the seventh inning to give the Athletics their three runs.

In Chicago, meanwhile, Hack Wilson drove out a home run for the Chicago Cubs which spelled a 1 to 0 victory over the World Champion St. Louis Cardinals. Wilson's homer was one of the two hits which Wee Willie Sherdel allowed but it was enough to beat him. The Cards got six safeties off Percy Jones but they were too scattered to be productive of runs.

The veteran Tris Speaker scored three runs in Washington's 7 to 1 victory over the Boston Red Sox. It was Washington's third consecutive win.

The Pittsburgh Pirates remained the only unbeaten team in the National league by taking their third straight from Cincinnati, 10 to 6. The Pirates sent Rixey to the showers with eight hits in five innings, and then made six more off Art Nehf.

The Chicago White Sox made their seven hits when hits meant runs and defeated the Cleveland Indians, 6 to 1. Ike Boone produced the run in the seventh inning which broke a 1 to 1 tie, scoring Falk on a double.

Although out of it, 11 to 10, the New York Giants took advantage of the breaks and defeated the Phillies, 6 to 3.

Charley Robertson, a White Sox castoff, let the Robins down with five hits and the Boston Braves took three out of four from Brooklyn by winning yesterday, 3 to 1. Moore's home run in the sixth with a runner on base clinched the victory.

The St. Louis Browns and Detroit Tigers were stopped by rain at the end of the fifth inning with the score, 2 to 2. It was the first game of the season in St. Louis, rain preventing even an attempt to start the first three days.

W. K. VANDERBILT STARTS ACTION FOR DIVORCE

Paris, April 16. — (UP)—It was understood today that William K. Vanderbilt had started action for divorce in the Seine tribunal from the former Virginia Fair, to whom he was married April 4, 1899.

French court procedure necessitates several complicated steps before a suit for divorce can be judged by the court. The first step, which is understood already to have been taken in the Vanderbilt case, is the so-called citation in divorce which amounts to a request to the court for authorization to file suit.

If the court decides the case can be heard, it invites both parties to a reconciliation meeting, which for the Vanderbilt case was believed today to have been set early for next month. If the court's effort to effect a reconciliation failed, the suit for divorce would come before the tribunal for decision. But, up to this point the suit may be dropped or thrown out of court.

Mrs. Vanderbilt arrived in France several days ago from New York. Her husband has been cruising European waters in his yacht.

SEEK RECEIVER FOR PROPERTIES OF BROWNING

White Plains, N. Y., April 15. — (UP)—Appointment of a receiver for the large property holdings of Edward West Browning was asked in a motion filed in the supreme court today in behalf of Mrs. Frances Heenan "Peaches" Browning.

Mrs. Browning's attorneys, Epstein and Smith, said today the motion was made to protect her alimony rights under a temporary order. Browning stopped payments of $200 weekly a month ago when the decision in the separation suit was given in his favor. Under a final order signed yesterday by Justice Segar, he is required to pay alimony up to yesterday. He is $1,200 in arrears.

WEEK 'SCHOOLING' AT UNIVERSITY

Minneapolis, April 16. — (UP)—More than 1,000 Minnesota school leaders returned to their homes in various parts of the state today following a week of "schooling" at the University of Minnesota.

The faculties attended "schoolmen's week" which started last Monday and came to a close last night.

At the closing session the parents of school children occupied the principal position in the discussions. Parents would do well to use the symposium as their center of activities as well as the children, Roy L. Smith, pastor of Simpson M. E. church, Minneapolis, suggested in an address. School teachers, he said, can play a large part in urging parents of their pupils to become more interested in their children's recreation.

San Francisco, April 16. — (UP)—The gasoline price war in California which started in Los Angeles early in the week, spread through the state today with most distributing company announcing a two-cent per gallon cut.

Where the Los Angeles competition has battered the price down to 12½ cents per gallon there, the San Francisco retail price will be 15 cents, with corresponding two cent reductions everywhere.

NEW YORK

YANKEES HAVE GREAT STRENGTH

TEAM INHERITS CHAMPIONSHIP CALIBRE FROM LAST SEASON

THE PHILADELPHIA ATHLETICS WERE PICKED TO WIN

By HENRY L. FARRELL
(United Press Staff Correspondent)

New York, April 16. — Baseball for the current season is still in its swaddling clothes but it already is apparent that one of the most robust youngsters in the American League is the New York team.

It inherited championship strength from last season and it seems to be even more capable of carrying the honor of the family than what might be termed its parents. We picked the Philadelphia Athletics to win the American League pennant by reason of the opinion that the Athletics were a strong team with added strength and that the Yankees were not an improved team over the one that almost slumped out of the championship last year.

It has been shown already, however, that the Yankees are an improved club with more reserved strength and a vastly improved shortstop.

Those who found fault with the Yankees pointed out a weakness on the left side of the infield, with the fragile Joe Dugan with a trick knee at third base and Mark Koenig, with butter fingers and a distressing inclination to err in the pinches, at shortstop.

The fragile Dugan, always a powerful player during the early season, is out of the game with an ankle wound, but his absence hardly is felt with Mike Gazella, former Lafayette football star, holding down the substitute job capably.

Babe Ruth, the most noted victim of an appetite, consumed too many hot dogs during the opening game and had to retire with a stomach ache but Ben Paschal walked up to the bat and smacked out a single, whereas the Babe hadn't even smelled one.

There are also on the club an infielder of note, M. J. Mart; an outfielder of note, F. G. ; and a catcher of note, G. J. , who weren't around last year. And also there is Det. J. , who is minus an appendix which hampered him last season.

But the big improvement in the club is Mark Koenig, the twenty-two year old shortstop.

Against the judgment of grand stand managers, Miller Huggins coaxed Koenig along all last season. He blew a lot of games because of nervousness and a fretful disposition and he had a big part in blowing the world's series right out from under the Yankees.

After the St. Louis Cardinals had won the post-season classic the general verdict among those outside the family was that the Yankees would have to get another shortstop or finish some place under first this year. But Huggins insisted he has a great young shortstop who was fumbling around trying to find himself and that all he needed was confidence.

During the swapping season there were many rumors of players that might draw tickets to other clubs and changes in the lineup that might be made but Miller Huggins saw to it that Koenig's name was never mentioned and he let it be known that the youngster was his shortstop in full and complete possession of the regular job. That didn't do the youngster any harm.

Koenig has been the sensation of the early season. He always could hit, but now he is hitting better. He could field a little last year but this year he has been a trip for everything that has come his way.

Just a spring spurt, you might say. And perhaps it is, but Huggins doesn't think so. "All that boy needed was just the kind of a start he got this season," Huggins said today. "He has found himself and you just watch him for the rest of the season."

FOREST FIRE HAZARDS IN NEW YORK STATE

Albany, N. Y., April 15. — (UP)—Forest fire hazards have become so serious that the conservation commission is seriously considering requesting the governor to issue a proclamation closing the forests and wooded lands of the state to the public, it was announced today at the commission offices.

Twenty-three fires in forest and brush were reported to the commission today, one of which is of serious proportions.

LEAPS IN PARACHUTE FROM DISABLED PLANE

Washington, April 15. — (UP)—Lieut. S. A. McClelland, U. S. marine reserve corps, escaped from death today by leaping in a parachute from his disabled plane 5,000 feet in the air.

He landed in the Potomac river, unfastened the straps of his parachute, and swam until he was rescued by men in boats.

McClelland was testing an "Everhardt-Shipboard" fighting plane at Bolling field. Its tail broke when he was up 6,000 feet, and it went into a backward spin for 1,000 feet before McClelland could leap.

Turning over many times, the plane dropped into the river not far from where McClelland fell, and sank.

Transport Henderson Sails With 1,500 Marines for China

Honolulu, T. H., April 16. — (UP)—Bearing 1,500 marines who embarked from San Diego, the transport Henderson sailed from here at daybreak for Shanghai.

The leathernecks, confined to rather cramped quarters for nearly a week, swarmed over Honolulu during the ship's 12 hours in the port here, enjoying their liberty to the utmost.

ADMITS SHE POSED AS SISTER

New York, April 16. — (UP)—After admitting she had posed as a sister to Patrolman Martin Gately, who was found dead with a bullet in his head in a furnished room today, Mrs. Christina Conlon was held as a material witness.

The body was found by a policeman who heard Mrs. Conlon screaming that her brother had shot himself. She told detectives Gately was her brother and had supported her and her baby. She was in another room when Gately killed himself, she told police.

Questioning Gately's father, police learned that Mrs. Conlon was not related to his son and she admitted this when the father confronted her in the police station. She said she had lived with him as his sister for several months.

FORTUNE GIVEN TO HIS HOUSEKEEPERS BY COM. HUNTINGTON

Elmira, O., April 16. — (UP)—A fortune of half a million dollars was bequeathed by Commodore William R. Huntington to Mr. and Mrs. J. A. Robson, his housekeepers, in his will filed here today.

Robson and his wife had served Huntington only about two years. They had been in modest circumstances, Robson having been a dry cleaner.

Huntington, former commodore of the Inter-Lake Yachting association, and probably the best known sportsman on the great lakes, died at his home here yesterday.

JURY UNABLE TO AGREE

Pawhuska, Okla., April 16. — (UP)—Unable to agree but standing 9 to 3 for conviction, the jury in the case of Byron Burkhardt, accused murderer of Anna Brown, wealthy Osage Indian woman killed in the "reign of terror" was discharged here this afternoon.

The case will not be heard again until some time next September, court attaches said.

SCRAPDOCK

TEAM TASTES BITTER DEFEAT

NASH-FINCH SQUAD WINS KITTENBALL GAME 21 TO 15

GROCERYMEN SCORE TWO RUNS IN THE FIRST INNING

The Scrapdock team went down to defeat before the Nash-Finch kittenball team Thursday evening in a game characterized by considerable wild playing, the score being 21 to 15.

The grocerymen started the scoring with two runs in the first inning, and ran up a total of nine in the second, while the shop team held them scoreless in the third. In the fourth they succeeded in bringing in three more counters, and finished strong in the fifth with seven runs.

After failing to score in the first the Scrapdock boys ran up a total of nine runs in the second, but were held to one in the third and scoreless in the fourth. Rallying in the fifth they brought the score to 15 by bringing in five runs, after two men were down.

Milton Anderson and E. Anderson of the Scrapdock aggregation brought in home runs, while I. H. Holman scored four runs for the wholesale grocers. Metter, Barret, and Engbretson each scored three runs for the Nash-Finch team.

TEXAS LAND

OWNERS SEEK PUBLIC APOLOGY

Austin, Tex., April 16. — (UP)—Sharp reply was expected to be made today by Gov. Dan Moody to charges contained in a recent Minnesota state bulletin considered libelous by Texas land owners and land dealers and demand is to be made of Minnesota authorities for a public apology.

It was said at Gov. Moody's office that telegrams are pouring in from south Texas points and towns in the lower Rio Grande valley strongly protesting against the alleged libelous statements.

CRAZED BY FLOOD, SLAYS FATHER AND SHOOT 2 BROTHERS

Newport, Ark., April 16. — (UP)—Will Piker, crazed over losses and worry from the flood that grips Jackson county, was barricaded in his home about 26 miles from here today after slaying his father and shooting two brothers.

Sheriff Nance cannot get to the scene because of flood conditions, but asked Bradford officers to organize a posse and go to the cabin in skills. Tear gas is being rushed to Bradford from Little Rock.

No further particulars could be learned of the shooting as Bradford is cut off from outside communication by the flood.

W. K. VANDERBILT

STARTS ACTION

FOR DIVORCE

Paris, April 16. — (UP)—It was understood today that William K. Vanderbilt had started action for divorce in the Seine tribunal from the former Virginia Fair, to whom he was married April 4, 1899.

French court procedure necessitates several complicated steps before a suit for divorce can be judged by the court. The first step, which is understood already to have been taken in the Vanderbilt case, is the so-called citation in divorce which amounts to a request to the court for authorization to file suit.

If the court decides the case can be heard, it invites both parties to a reconciliation meeting, which for the Vanderbilt case was believed today to have been set early for next month. If the court's effort to effect a reconciliation failed, the suit for divorce would come before the tribunal for decision. But, up to this point the suit may be dropped or thrown out of court.

Mrs. Vanderbilt arrived in France several days ago from New York. Her husband has been cruising European waters in his yacht.

We picked the Philadelphia Athletics to win the American League pennant by reason of the opinion that the Athletics were a strong team with added strength and that the Yankees were not an improved team over the one that almost slumped out of the championship last year.

It has been shown already, however, that the Yankees are an improved club with more reserved strength and a vastly improved shortstop.

Those who found fault with the Yankees pointed out a weakness on the left side of the infield, with the fragile Joe Dugan with a trick knee at third base and Mark Koenig, with butter fingers and a distressing inclination to err in the pinches, at shortstop.

The fragile Dugan, always a powerful player during the early season, is out of the game with a spike wound, but his absence hardly is felt with Mike Gazella, former Lafayette football star, holding down the substitute job capably.

Babe Ruth, the most noted victim of an appetite, consumed too many hot dogs during the opening game and had to retire with a stomach ache but Ben Paschal walked up to the bat and smacked out a single, whereas the Babe hadn't even smelled one.

There are also on the club an infielder of note, McQuinn; an out-felder of note, Bass; and a catcher of note, Grabowski, who weren't around last year. And also there is Dutch Reuther, who is minus an appendix, which hampered him last season.

But the big improvement in the club is Mark Koenig, the twenty-two year old shortstop.

Against the judgment of grand stand managers, Miller Huggins coaxed Koenig along all last season. He blew a lot of games because of nervousness and a fretful disposition and he had a big part in blowing the world's series right out from under the Yankees.

After the St. Louis Cardinals had won the post-season classic the general verdict among those outside the family was that the Yankees would have to get another shortstop or finish some place under first this year. But Huggins insisted he has a great young shortstop who was fumbling around trying to find himself and that all he needed was confidence.

During the swapping season there were many rumors of players that might draw tickets to other clubs and changes in the lineup that might be made but Miller Huggins saw to it that Koenig's name was never mentioned and he let it be known that the youngster was his shortstop in full and complete possession of the regular job. That didn't do the youngster any harm.

Koenig has been the sensation of the early season. He always could hit, but now he is hitting better. He could field a little last year but this year he has been a trip for everything that has come his way.

Just a spring spurt, you might say. And perhaps it is, but Huggins doesn't think so.

"All that boy needed was just the kind of a start he got this season," Huggins said today. "He has found himself and you just watch him for the rest of the season."

FOREST FIRE HAZARDS IN NEW YORK STATE

Albany, N. Y., April 15. — (UP)—

Forest fire hazards have become so serious that the conservation commission is seriously considering requesting the governor to issue a proclamation closing the forests and wooded lands of the state to the public, it was announced today at the commission offices.

Twenty-three fires in forest and brush were reported to the commission today, one of which is of serious proportions.

LEAPS IN PARACHUTE FROM DISABLED PLANE

Washington, April 15. — (UP)—

Lieut. S. A. McClelland, U. S. marine reserve corps, escaped from death today by leaping in a parachute from his disabled plane 5,000 feet in the air.

He landed in the Potomac river, unfastened the straps of his parachute, and swam until he was rescued by men in boats. McClelland was testing an "Ever-hard-Shipboard" fighting plane at Bolling field. Its tail broke when he was up 6,000 feet, and it went into a backward spin for 1,000 feet, before McClelland could leap.

Turning over many times, the plane dropped into the river not far from where McClelland fell, and sank.

Transport Henderson Sails With 1,500 Marines for China

Honolulu, T. H., April 16. — (UP)—Bearing 1,500 marines who embarked from San Diego, the transport Henderson sailed from here at daybreak for Shanghai.

The leathernecks, confined to rather cramped quarters for nearly a week, swarmed over Honolulu during the ship's 12 hours in the port here, enjoying their liberty to the utmost.

ADMITS SHE POSED AS SISTER

New York, April 16. — (UP)—After admitting she had posed as a sister to Patrolman Martin Gately, who was found dead with a bullet in his head in a furnished room today, Mrs. Christina Conlon was held as a material witness.

The body was found by a policeman who heard Mrs. Conlon screaming that her brother had shot himself. She told detectives Gately was her brother and had supported her and her baby. She was in another room when Gately killed himself, she told police.

Questioning Gately's father, police learned that Mrs. Conlon was not related to him and she admitted this when the father confronted her in the police station. She said she had lived with him as his sister for several months.

FORTUNE GIVEN TO HIS HOUSEKEEPERS BY COM. HUNTINGTON

Elyria, O., April 16. — (UP)—A fortune of half a million dollars was bequeathed by Commodore William R. Huntington to Mr. and Mrs. J. A. Robson, his housekeepers, in his will filed here today.

Robson and his wife had served Huntington only about two years. They had been in modest circumstances, Robson having been a dry cleaner.

Huntington, former commodore of the Inter-Lake Yachting association, and probably the best known sportsman on the great lakes, died at his home here yesterday.

JURY UNABLE TO AGREE

Pawhuska, Okla., April 16. — (UP)—Unable to agree but standing 9 to 2 for conviction, the jury in the case of Byron Burkhardt, accused murderer of Anna Brown, wealthy Osage Indian woman killed in the "reign of terror" was discharged here this afternoon.

The case will not be heard again until some time next September, court attaches said.

SCRAPDOCK

TEAM TASTES BITTER DEFEAT

NASH-FINCH SQUAD WINS KITTENBALL GAME 21 TO 15

GROCERYMEN SCORE TWO RUNS IN THE FIRST INNING

The Scrapdock team went down to defeat before the Nash-Finch kittenball team Thursday evening in a game characterized by considerable wild playing, the score being 21 to 15.

The grocerymen started the scoring with two runs in the first inning, and ran up a total of nine in the second, while the shop team held them scoreless in the third. In the fourth they succeeded in bringing in three more counters, and finished strong in the fifth with seven runs.

After failing to score in the first the Scrapdock boys ran up a total of nine runs in the second, but were held to one in the third and scoreless in the fourth. Rallying in the fifth they brought the score to 15 by bringing in five runs, after two men were down.

Milton Anderson and E. Anderson of the Scrapdock aggregation brought in home runs, while I. H. Holman scored four runs for the wholesale grocers. Mettler, Barrett, and Engbretson each scored three runs for the Nash-Finch team.

TEXAS LAND OWNERS SEEK PUBLIC APOLOGY

Austin, Tex., April 16. — (UP)—Sharp reply was expected to be made today by Gov. Dan Moody to charges contained in a recent Minnesota state bulletin considered libelous by Texas land owners and land dealers and demand is to be made of Minnesota authorities for a public apology.

It was said at Gov. Moody's office that telegrams are pouring in from south Texas points and towns in the lower Rio Grande valley strongly protesting against the alleged libelous statements.

CRAZED BY FLOOD, SLAYS FATHER AND SHOOT 2 BROTHERS

Newport, Ark., April 16. — (UP)—Will Piker, crazed over losses and worry from the flood that grips Jackson county, was barricaded in his home about 26 miles from here today after slaying his father and shooting two brothers.

Sheriff Nance cannot get to the scene because of flood conditions, but asked Bradford officers to organize a posse and go to the cabin in skiffs. Tear gas is being rushed to Bradford from Little Rock.

No further particulars could be learned of the shooting as Bradford is cut off from outside communication by the flood.

Crystal Gazing Old
Crystal gazing was practiced by the ancients. References appear to it in the literature of the Seventeenth and Eighteenth centuries. There were similar practices among the native tribes of North and South America, Asia, Australia and Africa.

Cooking Chats With Six Famous Cooks will be Published Every Thursday in the Dispatch

Six of the country's most famous cooks who are contributing many splendid cooking articles.

A POST-GRADUATE course in cooking! That's what we are giving our women readers, contributing today. Here's an opportunity to increase your cooking skill through the experience of experts.

Six nationally famous cooking authorities have contributed to this series. Their favorite, tested recipes and many practical household suggestions make many instructive, easy reading articles. You have heard of every one of these famous cooks. But here's just a brief description of each. Mrs. Sarah Tyson Rorer, the "Philadelphia Cooking Expert," is a pioneer cooking teacher, and author of many cook books.

Besides being principal of the Boston School of Cookery, Miss Lucy G. Allen has written many cook books, among them, "Table Service" and "Choice Recipes for Clever Cooks."

Mrs. Belle DeGraf, San Francisco, is known country-wide as a home economics counsellor. And Mrs. Kate Brew Vaughn, Director of the household economics department of the Los Angeles Evening Express, gives cooking instructions to more than 100,000 women annually.

Miss Margaret Allen Hall is on the faculty of the famous Battle Creek College of Home Economics. Nutrition work is her specialty. Miss Rosa Michaelis is demonstrator for the New Orleans Housewives' League.

Start now to read this instructive, interesting series. And watch each week for the "Cooking Chats."

Rites Severe Strain on Physical Strength
When Hindu pilgrims visit a sacred place they go around the spot by a continuous series of prostrations. They carry a stone in their hands and when they drop on the ground they stretch their arms out as far as possible and leave the stone on the ground so as to measure their length. Then they arise, walk the six or seven feet to the stone, and pick it up. Again they prostrate themselves, leave the stone, arise, and so on until they have returned to the starting point.

Many of the circuits are more than three miles in length, and it requires an entire day to make the whole trip. Each mile usually requires one thousand prostrations, and when a devotee has dropped three thousand times he is so nearly dead that he rolls over in the dirt to the side of the road and rests there until the next day.

Influence of the Liver
Maybe it's the liver that asks us now and then, "What's the use?"—Toledo Blade.

Carolyn Made Her Choice

By MARTHA M. WILLIAMS

(Copyright.)

THE Risleys had taken Carolyn at birth, from a dying mother's arms—homeless, friendless, everything but nameless. The name plus some stirring of humanity had saved her from the county house. Raleighs had been big folks way back yonder, said the elders—"most anything might happen to this little trick, who besides the name, had unmistakably the Raleigh favor. The Risleys did not say so, but thought so all the more strongly for their silence. Selfmade, masterful, all they saw in the girl baby, potentially a cap-sewer for their soaring ambitions. Son Ebbett, aged seven, would never have brothers or sisters—to raise up and train a proper wife for him, dowered with Raleigh blood. Raleigh traditions would give him splendid help in his upward climb.

So Carolyn had been cherished rather more than if she had been born to them—they gave her all but the essentials, love and freedom. They even forgave her lack of regular beauty, in consideration of her air—her distinctive look of race. It fretted them a bit that she would be spoiled, overbearing toward other children—she had never heard the phrase but seemed intuitively to sense the obligation of nobility. Especially towards Ebbett, slow-witted, shy, awkward. But he had won Carolyn's smile.

Ebbett, scoring mere booklearning, had been drafted by kind Fate into Life's university. A pioneer, born out of time, he loved the woods, the waters, the creatures of the wild; shooting, trapping, trailing, fairly enthralled him. He came to man's estate, a marksman of renown—inevitably he had drifted into companionship with men of like taste. Thus he had been at home less than a year in all the five that lay betwixt Carolyn and womanhood. Now for eighteen months he had been ranging tropic jungles, sports brother to the most famous explorer of his time. Little news had come out from them—still it was certain no ill had befallen the expedition; further it was nobly understood the expedition might come back to civilization early in the new year.

At thought of that Carolyn now thrilled, now shivered. She had all the old fondness for Ebbett—but she yearned inexpressibly for choice. He must know the family plan—suppose he resented it dumbly even as she did? He would never let her guess it—he was much too kind for that. Marriage lacking love, either side or both, would be purgatory—of so much she was sure. If he loved her—there she stopped short in her musings—but suddenly her face was tinged to match the glowing leaves.

As she lifted her face for a last caress from them a motor purred swiftly up the drive. An odd vehicle, well-worn and dusty. Its door opened deliberately—as deliberately two men stepped out—Carolyn stared hard a second, then darted within crying tremulously: "Wake up, everybody! Mother! father! Ebbett!" there breath failed her—for ten seconds she was dizzy. A rousing shout steadied her.

"Here's your new son—Danny-Joe hasn't got any white folks, so, of course, he gets a share in you-all," Ebbett explained dragging forward something as tall, as sunburned, as clean-cut as himself. "Danny-Joe Barkley you know—whosever pals with one of us two has got to pal with the other."

"I'm willin'," from Dad Risley. Ebbett tight in his mother's arms had no breath for speech beyond a smothered: "Babe?" Five minutes later, freed of na, but crushing dad's hand in a painful grip, he said, reprovingly: "Why'n't you mke your manners, Babe? Here I been tellin' Danny-Joe all that long sail home about the Raleigh beauty we had in captivity—" "Liar! You never spoke her name. If you had—" Danny-Joe stopped staring hard. "If you had," he repeated, "we'd have been here a year ago—"

"I don't see why?" Ebbett began. "Of course not—your youth hasn't been shadowed by hunting an elusive heir to a million," Danny-Joe said. "My mother's sister eloped with the Raleigh scapegrace, and thus got herself disinherited. But, at the very end, granddad dreamed there was somewhere a child of his blood—and laid it on me to find it, and pay over the million. Now I see her, even without the name, I should know—her mother's picture life size, is the joy and comfort of my mother's living room."

Some six hours later Ebbett, sauntering with Carolyn through the still gorgeous garden asked her suddenly: "Babe—now you're a real rich lady, what are you goin' to do with yourself?"

"Why—get married I think—if the right man will have me," Babe said outblushing the reddest late rose.

"Tell him I dare him not to," Ebbett said smiling oddly.

"Then why don't you take me?" Carolyn retorted, making to fling herself into his arms.

"Well! Of all the deceitful little rascals!" Ebbett ejaculated. "I thought you hated me like pizen—else I never could have stayed away."

"I didn't—I only wanted a chance to choose," Carolyn cried.

"And I'm right glad you got it—saves a heap of trouble," Ebbett said judiciously—but with his lips buried in her soft hair.

Rites Severe Strain on Physical Strength

When Hindu pilgrims visit a sacred place they go around the spot by a continuous series of prostrations.

They carry a stone in their hands and when they drop on the ground they stretch their arms out as far as possible and leave the stone on the ground so as to measure their length.

Then they arise, walk the six or seven feet to the stone, and pick it up. Again they prostrate themselves, leave the stone, arise, and so on until they have returned to the starting point.

Many of the circuits are more than three miles in length, and it requires an entire day to make the whole trip. Each mile usually requires one thousand prostrations, and when a devotee has dropped three thousand times he is so nearly dead that he rolls over in the dirt to the side of the road and rests there until the next day.

Carolyn Made Her Choice

By MARTHA M. WILLIAMS

(Copyright.)

THE Risleys had taken Carolyn at birth, from a dying mother's arms—homeless, friendless, everything but nameless. The name plus some stirring of humanity had saved her from the county house. Raleighs had been big folks way back yonder, said the elders—"most anything might happen to this little trick, who besides the name, had unmistakably the Raleigh favor. The Risleys did not say so, but thought so all the more strongly for their silence. Selfmade, masterful, all they saw in the girl baby, potentially a cap-sheaf for their soaring ambitions. Son Ebbett, aged seven, would never have brothers or sisters—to raise up and train a proper wife for him, dowered with Raleigh blood. Raleigh traditions would give him splendid help in his upward climb.

So Carolyn had been cherished rather more than if she had been born to them—they gave her all but the essentials, love and freedom. MUNICIPAL COURT BUSY

Judge Lamonte P. Koop Has Many Cases on Docket

TRAFFIC VIOLATIONS

Chester Hively Fined $20 on Charge of Reckless Driving

Chester Hively was brought before Judge Lamonte P. Koop in municipal court this morning on a charge of reckless driving. He was fined $20, which he paid. The scene of the offense was North Broadway between Ivy and Juniper streets. In driving through a crew of men employed by the city in cleaning up the street he tried to make a short turn in passing one of the wagons and the rear end of his car swerved and struck a curb. City employees who witnessed the accident reported that the car was travelling at a speed between 30 and 35 miles per hour.

Three young men from Southeast Brainerd, Warner Lind, Carl Peterson and Paul E. Erickson, paid fines of $15 each. They were charged with disorderly conduct at a dance at Finnish hall last Thursday evening.

Two brothers, John, Jr., and Frank Ethan, were brought before the court on a disorderly conduct charge. A plea of not guilty was entered by Attorney G. S. Swanson of the firm of Swanson, Swanson & Swanson, who represented them, and trial was set for Wednesday, April 20, at 10 a. m. They were arrested last Thursday night at Finnish hall, two federal prohibition officers being present at the time the arrests were made.

Attorney Mal Clark appeared for Albert Hand, charged with maintaining a nuisance. The date of his trial was set for Tuesday, April 19.

UNION SERVICES GOOD FRIDAY

Brainerd Churches Join in Reverent Adoration of Savior

PARK THEATRE CROWDED

Ministers Taking Part Gratified by Splendid Spirit of Worshippers

Several Brainerd churches joined in union services last evening at the Park theatre in reverent commemoration of the last hours spent on earth by our Saviour.

The theatre was crowded nearly to capacity by Brainerd people, to whom these services have always proved a blessing and source of inspiration. After the prelude by Mrs. C. W. Hemsworth, pianist, the united congregations joined in the singing of "Rock of Ages." The program was interspersed by the singing of several choirs, the Congregational Swedish Bethany, First Baptist and Bethlehem Evangelical participating. Ministers of the churches taking part in the program expressed themselves as gratified by the splendid spirit of unity shown by the various organizations who joined in the event.

The services were closed by the hymn, "When I Survey the Wonderful Cross," sung by the united congregations immediately preceding the benediction and postlude.

Swedish Bethany Ladies Aid

The ladies aid of the Swedish Bethany church will hold a food sale Saturday, April 23, beginning at 10 a. m. at the Brainerd Gas Office on South Broadway.

"CROW WING DRIVE" SONG

Composed in Days When Brainerd Was Crude Lumbering Village

PUBLISHED IN MAGAZINE

March Number of "Minnesota History" Embalsms Historic Verses

The March number of the "Minnesota History," a quarterly magazine published by the Minnesota Historical society, quotes several verses from a song, "The Crow Wing Drive" composed in the days when Brainerd was a crude lumbering village. Several names that are still well known in Brainerd are mentioned.

The song comes under the book review section, having been edited with a group of other similar songs by Frank Rickaby, assistant professor of English, Pomona college, in a book entitled "Ballads and Songs of the Shanty Boy." For seven years Prof. Rickaby has been collecting songs, both words and music, from "men who worked in the woods of Michigan, Wisconsin and Minnesota, mainly during the Golden Age of American Lumbering (1870-1900)."

Mr. Rickaby asserts that "No group ever celebrated itself in song and ballad more than did the shanty-boys of the Golden Age." In his introduction, he sketches the background of the industry and tells how "over Michigan, Wisconsin and Minnesota hovered for 30 years the far seen glow of its romantic climax. Immense fortunes fell into the hands of far sighted men as into the spring-swollen streams rolled billions upon billions of logs and the land was sown with stumps."

Something of the Minnesota flavor of some of the songs may be indicated by these few verses taken from "The Crow Wing Drive."

Says White Pine Tom to Arkansas, "There's one more drive that I'd like to strike."

Says Arkansas: "What can it be?" "It's the Crow Wing River for the Old Pine Tree."

Says Arkansas, "Now if that's the case, I can put you in the race. Come with me in the mornin' an' we'll begin. For I've a job a pushin' for Long Jim Quinn."

"We have boarded the M. & N. our friends in Bemidji we bid good-bye. Humpy Russell took us down the line And landed us in Brainerd right on time."

There was White Pine Tom and young Lazzard And Mike Stewart and his two big pards;

Billy Domine and the Weston boys, And there was others from Bemidji that could make some noise.

TRANSOCEANIC PHONE CALLS

Hour is Added to Daily Service Effective April 10th

The period during which service is available for telephone calls to London and other points in England, and points in Scotland and Wales is extended one hour, according to an announcement issued by the American Telephone & Telegraph Company.

"DOWN UPON SWANEE RIVER"

Film and Vodvil Open Picture Season at Park Theatre

SHOWN SATURDAY, APRIL 16

Troop of Colored Syncopators Accompany the Picture

Opening the Park Theatre's picture season, "Down Upon the Swanee River" a film, billed as a motion picture classic, will be shown Saturday, April 16, at both a matinee and evening performance.

A troupe of colored vodvil syncopators accompany the picture and a Swanee River colored orchestra will play during the showing of the film. The musical score, played by the musicians has a great and universal appeal in that it consists chiefly of the sweet old melodies of the romantic Southland.

The exterior scenes of the picture were filmed on the actual river of the song and the story is claimed to be quite as full of melody as the old loved song itself. It is melodrama but of the very highest class, as life is melodrama.

According to Manager Hiller this is a picture that will grip the human heart at its core and hold it until the finish of the last scene.

Darkey entertainments are always popular among young and old and this one has proven no exception. Popular prices will prevail.

MUNICIPAL COURT BUSY

Judge Lamonte P. Koop Has Many Cases on Docket

TRAFFIC VIOLATIONS

Chester Hively Fined $20 on Charge of Reckless Driving

Chester Hively was brought before Judge Lamonte P. Koop in municipal court this morning on a charge of reckless driving. He was fined $20, which he paid. The scene of the offense was North Broadway between Ivy and Juniper streets. In driving through a crew of men employed by the city in cleaning up the street he tried to make a short turn in passing one of the wagons and the rear end of his car swerved and struck a curb. City employees who witnessed the accident reported that the car was travelling at a speed between 30 and 35 miles per hour.

Three young men from Southeast Brainerd, Warner Lind, Carl Peterson and Paul E. Erickson, paid fines of $15 each. They were charged with disorderly conduct at a dance at Finnish hall last Thursday evening.

Two brothers, John, Jr., and Frank Ethan, were brought before the court on a disorderly conduct charge. A plea of not guilty was entered by Attorney G. S. Swanson of the firm of Swanson, Swanson & Swanson, who represented them, and trial was set for Wednesday, April 20, at 10 a. m. They were arrested last Thursday night at Finnish hall, two federal prohibition officers being present at the time the arrests were made.

Attorney Mal Clark appeared for Albert Hand, charged with maintaining a nuisance. The date of his trial was set for Tuesday, April 19.

Red Sea, the third for the decalogue at Mt. Sinai and the fourth in commemoration of the victorious entry into Egypt.

Strict federal supervision has been exercised over withdrawal of sacramental wine from bonded warehouses for this event, Weeks said. During the last few weeks rabbis obtained 500,000 gallons of wine for distribution to their congregations.

"The unleavened bread used in the Jewish celebrations commemorates the haste of the Jews' departure when driven out by Pharaoh after consumption of the ten plagues," he continued. "Bitter herbs commemorate their oppression and slavery while the paschal lamb is prepared and furnished as it was in Egypt on the night before the deliverance."

THIRD KILLING BY COAST GUARDS

RELATIVES ALLEGE YACHT OF SLAIN MAN WAS NOT A RUM RUNNER

Miami, Fla., April 16.—(UP)—The third killing by federal coast guards in Biscayne Bay within two weeks was recorded today with the death of Ermon H. Jones, Coral Gables, Fla., who was wounded on March 14 when his yacht was fired on.

Relatives of Jones took steps today to prosecute guardsmen guilty of the shooting. They allege the yacht was being used for a pleasure trip at the time and the federal boats had no reason to suspect it was a rum runner.

Three guests of Jones at the time of the shooting say the federal officers boarded the vessel and piloted it to shore after the incident, taking Jones to a hospital for treatment.

The other killings charged to the federal officers were Charles Waite and his negro chauffeur, accused of rum running. They were under arrest on a coast guard boat and it is alleged they were shot after being thrown overboard.

SALE OF ELECTRIC LINE GETS SETBACK

St. Paul, April 16.—(UP)—Sale of the St. Paul Southern electric line to Hastings was reported to have been given a setback today.

Minneapolis interests had been the chief bidders for the purchase of the line. Their assurance that it would be sold to them was so strong that announcement had been made of plans to extend it to Rochester and purchase new equipment for hauling freight.

However, a committee of stockholders which received bids ended their session without taking any definite action.

CARROLL'S CONDITION VIRTUALLY UNCHANGED

Greenville, S. C., April 16.—(UP)—Earl Carroll's condition was virtually unchanged today, although attending physicians noted some improvement in his color.

The theatrical producer was conscious only at intervals, after which he would lapse immediately into a comatose state.

James, his brother, and two nurses remained in Carroll's bedroom throughout the night in case of emergency, but there was no sign of any radical change.

A little orange juice was Carroll's only nourishment this morning.

NEW SUPERINTENDENT OF MOOSEHEART

Ernest N. Roselle

According to word received in the city by Mooseheart members, Ernest N. Roselle, present superintendent of the State home for boys at Jamesburg, N. J., has been appointed the new superintendent of Mooseheart, the national school maintained at Mooseheart, Ill., by the Loyal Order of Moose. Such is the announcement coming from U. S. Secretary of Labor James J. Davis, founder of Mooseheart, and chairman of its board of governors.

Mr. Roselle succeeds Matthew P. Adams who resigned because of ill health after a term of 13 years. In addition to a sound and thorough academic training in New York and Yale universities Mr. Roselle has made many valuable contacts in the world of affairs, including extensive and practical experience in mining, architecture, and the building trades. He also has been in wide demand as a speaker on boy's work and related educational topics.

As superintendent of Mooseheart Mr. Roselle will direct the care and training of more than 1,400 children and will be head of a staff of several hundred employees. The school covers about 1,300 acres on which are 150 buildings, including homes, schools, shops, a hospital, and the national broadcasting station WJJD. Mooseheart is supported by dues and contributions from the 700,000 members of the order and is open to deceased and dependent members of the order. The Mooseheart "plant" is valued at $10,000,000.

Tin Can Trail and Reggie

By H. LOUIS RAYBOLD

(Copyright)

REGGIE HOLCOMB was a very superior young man. At least, he thought he was. In fact, about the only persons that Reggie had been unable to impress were his sister Madge and Madge's friend Dixie Jones.

Reggie had always considered Dixie a freckle-faced little nuisance until, during his absence at a very superior university, she had managed a miracle and become a slender, capable girl with that school-girl complexion. He had even thought her worthy to hang on his arm at commencement, but as Carlton Rogers had thought the same thing about her regarding his commencement, Reggie had had to suffer one of the few refusals of his life.

And perhaps it was because he wasn't yet over the sting of it, that he took pains to be even more scathing than usual in his comments about the plans of his sister and Dixie for the summer.

"I consider it singularly poisonous," he declared loftily, "for two presumably nice girls of nice family to stuff an old flivver with such truck and proceed to strew tin cans over the landscape. As if there weren't any exclusive resorts left for you to go to. Why you should want to join the ranks of those who think life was made to live under leaky canvas, de-vouring food flavored with grit and—"

"That'll do, darling," said Madge sweetly, although her eyes flashed dangerously. "Dixie and I think the stars we are not dependent for our summer's enjoyment on young men like yourself whose idea of strenuous sport is waving a tennis racquet or dragging a canoe paddle through the pond lilies. How about it, Dix?"

Dixie looked straight up at Reggie with a wicked little twinkle in her brown eyes. "I dare you to follow us, Reginald! I don't believe you'd survive the first week!"

Possibly Dixie knew what she was doing. Certainly, she probably knew that Reggie was head over heels in love with her, and that to dare a man in that condition to do anything is very unwise—unless one is willing to stand the consequences. Reginald threw back his shoulders.

"I should loathe it," he said. "But if you think there is anything you and my sister Madge can do, that I cannot and go you one better, you have a great deal to learn!"

Madge and Dixie had been three days on the road and were well up in the Adirondacks, when, as they stopped at a gasoline station, they saw a very ancient and battered car pull up behind them. Tossed in the rear, as if the result of an explosion in a second-hand outfitting store, was an array of dusty bags, fishing tackle, tent poles, khaki canvas, and other articles of various sorts and shapes. At the wheel of this vehicle sat a figure about which not much could be told, except that it had on travel-stained corduroy, a dirty cap with torn visor, and large goggles.

Dixie grabbed Madge's arm. "That is the car that has been following us. It's that old Bryant that has been stuck around Blake's garage and I'll bet my patent can opener against your trick camp cot, it's your idiot brother, Reginald!"

Madge threw an oblique glance at the car behind. "Gosh, Dixie I think there's truth in what you say. Let's give him the time of his life!"

And in the days which followed, whenever possible, the girls chose the worst roads, sure, sooner or later, to catch a glimpse behind of a bouncing wreck of a car close on their trail.

"He's spoiling our fun," at last declared Madge. "Let's shake him and go our way."

So the following morning the girls turned back. They saw nothing of the other car, and howled gayly along the first macadam road they came to, gleefully sure they had fooled the superior Reggie.

At supper time, they turned into a huge camp, welcoming the laundry, showers and other conveniences they had long been denied.

Dixie stretched her arms luxuriously above her head. "This is the life!" she murmured. Then her arms dropped limply. "Do you see what I see?" she demanded.

Madge followed her glance. "Well I'll be—!" but she didn't finish her sentence, for the driver of a big, gray car had climbed down and was coming straight toward her.

"I'm waving the formalities of an introduction," he began at once—and it wasn't Reggie, either—"because I'm interested! I bought this old bus of Blake at the garage, and told him I guessed I'd go to Canada. He pointed you girls out to me. Said I ought to follow you. You'd been before and knew the best roads. So I did. At first, for information. Then, out of sheer dumb curiosity. If those are the best roads to Canada—" he shrugged his shoulders.

Madge looked at Dixie. "We thought you were our brother," she said.

They saw no more of the stranger on the trip, but back home, they met him properly. And, for years after ward, when Madge had become a wife and Dixie was Mrs. Carlton Rogers, they recalled the hectic journey.

As for Reggie, he married a very superior girl, his assistant teller in the bank, and steps for two weeks every year at one of the very best hotels.

THIRD KILLING
BY COAST GUARDSRELATIVES ALLEGE YACHT OF SLAIN MAN WAS NOT A
RUM RUNNER

Miami, Fla., April 16.—(UP)—The third killing by federal coast guards in Biscayne Bay within two weeks was recorded today with the death of Ermon H. Jones, Coral Gables, Fla., who was wounded on March 14 when his yacht was fired on.

Relatives of Jones took steps today to prosecute guardsmen guilty of the shooting. They allege the yacht was being used for a pleasure trip at the time and the federal boats had no reason to suspect it was a rum runner.

Three guests of Jones at the time of the shooting say the federal officers boarded the vessel and piloted it to shore after the incident, taking Jones to a hospital for treatment.

The other killings charged to the federal officers were Charles Waite and his negro chauffeur, accused of rum running. They were under arrest on a coast guard boat and it is alleged they were shot after being thrown overboard.

SALE OF ELECTRIC
LINE GETS SETBACK

St. Paul, April 16.—(UP)—Sale of the St. Paul Southern electric line to Hastings was reported to have been given a setback today.

Minneapolis interests had been the chief bidders for the purchase of the line. Their assurance that it would be sold to them was so strong that announcement had been made of plans to extend it to Rochester and purchase new equipment for hauling freight.

However, a committee of stockholders which received bids ended their session without taking any definite action.

CARROLL'S CONDITION
VIRTUALLY UNCHANGED

Greenville, S. C., April 16.—(UP)—Earl Carroll's condition was virtually unchanged today, although attending physicians noted some improvement in his color.

The theatrical producer was conscious only at intervals, after which he would lapse immediately into a comatose state.

James, his brother, and two nurses remained in Carroll's bedroom throughout the night in case of emergency, but there was no sign of any radical change.

A little orange juice was Carroll's only nourishment this morning.

This big production is to play New York City at $2.00 prices and the Lyceum is the first theatre to show it in the entire northwest, which again proves the Lyceum is presenting the pick of the late screen hits.

NEW SUPERINTENDENT OF MOOSEHEART

Ernest N. Roselle

According to word received in the city by Mooseheart members, Ernest N. Roselle, present superintendent of the State home for boys at Jamesburg, N. J., has been appointed the new superintendent of Mooseheart, the national school maintained at Mooseheart, Ill., by the Loyal Order of Moose. Such is the announcement coming from U. S. Secretary of Labor James J. Davis, founder of Mooseheart, and chairman of its board of governors.

Mr. Roselle succeeds Matthew P. Adams who resigned because of ill health after a term of 13 years. In addition to a sound and thorough academic training in New York and Yale universities Mr. Roselle has made many valuable contacts in the world of affairs, including extensive and practical experience in mining, architecture, and the building trades. He also has been in wide demand as a speaker on boy's work and related educational topics.

As superintendent of Mooseheart Mr. Roselle will direct the care and training of more than 1,400 children and will be head of a staff of several hundred employees. The school covers about 1,300 acres on which are 150 buildings, including homes, schools, shops, a hospital, and a national broadcasting station WJJD. Mooseheart is supported by dues and contributions from the 700,000 members of the order and is open to deceased and dependent members of the order. The Mooseheart "plant" is valued at $10,000,000.

Sills Has Another Strong Man's Role

Virtile roles that prove the quality of a real man have fallen to the lot of Milton Sills' naturally, because of his own character and appearance. He is a powerful man with a powerful mentality and both have been brought to play in his First National Pictures, the latest of which is called "The Sea Tiger," will be seen at the Lyceum tonight only.

Tin Can Trail
and Reggie

By H. LOUIS RAYBOLD

(Copyright)

REGGIE HOLCOMB was a very superior young man. At least, he thought he was. In fact, about the only persons that Reggie had been unable to impress were his sister Madge and Madge's friend Dixie Jones.

Reggie had always considered Dixie a freckle-faced little nuisance until, during his absence at a very superior university, she had managed a miracle and became a slender, capable girl with that school-girl complexion. He had even thought her worthy to hang on his arm at commencement, but as Carlton Rogers had thought the same thing about her regarding his commencement, Reggie had had to suffer one of the few refusals of his life.

And perhaps it was because he wasn't yet over the sting of it, that he took pains to be even more scathing than usual in his comments about the plans of his sister and Dixie for the summer.

"I consider it singularly poisonous," he declared loftily, "for two presumably nice girls of nice family to stuff an old flivver with such truck and proceed to strew tin cans over the landscape. As if there weren't any exclusive resorts left for you to go to. Why you should want to join the ranks of those who think life was made to live under leaky canvas, devouring food flavored with grit and—"

"That'll do, darling," said Madge sweetly, although her eyes flashed dangerously. "Dixie and I think the stars we are not dependent for our summer's enjoyment on young men like yourself whose idea of strenuous sport is waving a tennis racquet or dragging a canoe paddle through the pond lilies. How about it, Dix?"

Dixie looked straight up at Reggie with a wicked little twinkle in her brown eyes. "I dare you to follow us, Reginald! I don't believe you'd survive the first week!"

Possibly Dixie knew what she was doing. Certainly, she probably knew that Reggie was head over heels in love with her, and that to dare a man in that condition to do anything is very unwise—unless one is willing to stand the consequences.

Reginald threw back his shoulders.

"I should loathe it," he said. "But if you think there is anything you and my sister Madge can do, that I cannot and go you one better, you have a great deal to learn!"

Madge and Dixie had been three days on the road and were well up in the Adirondacks, when, as they stopped at a gasoline station, they saw a very ancient and battered car pull up behind them. Tossed in the rear, as if the result of an explosion in a second-hand outfitting store, was an array of dusty bags, fishing tackle, tent poles, khaki canvas, and other articles of various sorts and shapes. At the wheel of this vehicle sat a figure about which not much could be told, except that it had on travel-stained corduroy, a dirty cap with torn visor, and large goggles.

Dixie grabbed Madge's arm. "That is the car that has been following us. It's that old Bryant that has been stuck around Blake's garage and I'll bet my patent can opener against your trick camp cot, it's your idiot brother, Reginald!"

Madge threw an oblique glance at the car behind. "Gosh, Dixie I think there's truth in what you say. Let's give him the time of his life!"

And in the days which followed, whenever possible, the girls chose the worst roads, sure, sooner or later, to catch a glimpse behind of a bouncing wreck of a car close on their trail.

"He's spoiling our fun," at last declared Madge. "Let's shake him and go our way."

So the following morning the girls turned back. They saw nothing of the other car, and howled gayly along the first macadam road they came to, gleefully sure they had fooled the superior Reggie.

At supper time, they turned into a huge camp, welcoming the laundry, showers and other conveniences they had long been denied.

Dixie stretched her arms luxuriously above her head. "This is the life!" she murmured. Then her arms dropped limply. "Do you see what I see?" she demanded.

Madge followed her glance. "Well I'll be—" but she didn't finish her sentence, for the driver of a big, gray car had climbed down and was coming straight toward her.

"I'm waving the formalities of an introduction," he began at once—and it wasn't Reggie, either—"because I'm interested. I bought this old bus of Blake at the garage, and told him I guessed I'd go to Canada. He pointed you girls out to me. Said I ought to follow you. You'd been before and knew the best roads. So I did. At first, for information. Then, out of sheer dumb curiosity. If those are the best roads to Canada—" he shrugged his shoulders.

Madge looked at Dixie. "We thought you were our brother," she said.

They saw no more of the stranger on the trip, but back home, they met him properly. And, for years after ward, when Madge had become a wife and Dixie was Mrs. Carlton Rogers, they recalled the hectic journey.

As for Reggie, he married a very superior girl, his assistant teller in the bank, and steps for two weeks every year at one of the very best hotels.
